

Fenugreek oil Capsules

- Contains fenugreek oil
- Manufactured using cutting-edge liquid fill hard capsule technology
- Attractively designed for enhanced consumer appeal

Why should it be taken?

Glucomannan fiber in fenugreek can delay intestinal absorption of ingested sugars. Alkaloids present in fenugreek have demonstrated to possess hypoglycaemic actions.

Diosgenin saponin, a bioactive substance present abundantly in fenugreek, has antioxidative effects and plays a pivotal role in improving the diabetic status by several mechanisms.

How does it work?

Fenugreek helps to attenuate hyperglycemia by mediating transport of glucose from the intracellular space to the plasma membrane, thereby reducing the amount of glucose in the blood.

Diosgenin saponin is known to enable the renewal of β -cells in the pancreas and stimulate insulin secretion.

Galactomannan is a carbohydrate that represents 45-60% of a fenugreek seed. Galactomannan binds to long-chain starch polysaccharides in food and to the digestive enzymes that cleave these large sugars into glucose thereby lowering post meal blood sugars. It also temporarily delays absorption of glucose in the blood, slowing down the rate at which glucose enters the blood stream
